

THE WORLD OVER

"HAPPY ERNST TO BE HUNG"

RED DEER.—A sobbing gray-haired jurist, his weary face lined with emotion, Saturday in Red Deer's Supreme Court room sentenced a prisoner to hang on March 3, 1937, for murder.

Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing pronounced the fatal words "you shall be hanged by the neck until you are dead" on Emmanuel "Happy" Ernst, round-shouldered but sturdy Brynmor farm hand convicted of the window slaying of his erstwhile employer, George Pogorn, of Brynmor, the jurist's voice broke.

His bowed head slipped further down towards his clasped hands, and he could hardly utter the last words "And may God, in his infinite Grace, have mercy on your soul."

Mr. Henderson, coal mine operator of Drumheller, and owner of the Western Gem and Jewel mines in Drumheller, said in a meeting held in Carbon last week that "he was very optimistic about Carbon and believes that some day we might see here a city as large as Drumheller," and this belief is backed up by the money he is already investing in the town. The new mine they are opening up will be called, "Carbon Fuel, Power and Light Co."

A. YOUNG SPEAKS TO SMALL AUDIENCE ON SPANISH QUESTION

Thinks Canadian Government Should Take Side of Spanish People

Around forty people attended a public meeting in the Farmers' Exchange hall on Tuesday night of this week when Mr. A. Young, from the Committee to aid the Spanish people, spoke on the situation in Spain and the world's interest in the European countries, but on the people the world over.

Mr. Young stated that, "It is not a civil war in Spain, but an international invasion of the Spanish people by the fascists and reactionary forces of the world. It is not a situation in which only the duty and task of the Spanish people to fight against these destructive invaders; but it is the duty of all progressive people of the world to aid the Spanish people to defeat their enemy."

"If peace is to be preserved and the existing democracies maintained, considerable more effort will have to be exerted, to build a stronger and effective peace movement."

"The people of Canada must compel the Mackenzie King government to take a stand on the side of the Spanish people and to act in reality as the case at present, on the side of the fascists in Spain."

Mr. Young was elected as chairman of the meeting, and J. Niat gave a brief message, appealing for funds for the Spanish people. The collection total netted $4.33.

WHEAT PRICES SHOW GAINS

CHICAGO.—Domestic wheat prices smashed high records for the last seven years by skyrocketing five to eight cents a bushel on Monday, the sharpest advance in a single market session since 1933.

Suggestions that a world shortage of breadstuffs was at hand, including new estimates of increased German import requirements, were largely responsible, traders said. Wheat shot up eight cents a bushel to 1.46 1/4 at Minneapolis and 75 cents to 1.46 1/4 at Chicago.

THE DUKE OF WINDSOR

According to British constitution a king abdicating must relinquish all titles, therefore, on Friday last King Edward VIII became plain Mr. Edward Windsor. However the next King will confer any title he chooses on the abdicating monarch, and this was immediately done, so that our late King is now The Duke of Windsor.

As a customary, Parliament will make an annual grant to the new Duke.

KING EDWARD VIII LEAVES THRONE AFTER REIGN OF LITTLE LESS THAN A YEAR

Younger Brother, Duke of York, Becomes King George VI

VOLUNTARY EXILE

King Edward VIII relinquished his throne in Thursday, December 10, to be free to marry the woman he loves. In a formal document of voluntary abdication he passed the throne to his younger brother, the Duke of York, and expressed the wish his accession speedily come to pass.

"I, Edward VIII, of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, and Emperor of India, do hereby declare my irrevocable determination to renounce the Throne for myself and my descendants, and my desire that effect should be given to this instrument of abdication immediately."

"In token whereof I have hereunto set my hand this 10th day of December, 1936, in the presence of the witnesses whose signatures are subscribed below."

(Signed) "Edward, R.I." Thus did King Edward VIII, at the age of 42, step down from the ancient Throne of his forefathers to join his life and destiny with those of a woman his ministers advised him he must not marry as long as he was King.

His regal mantle fell to the tall, slender Duke of York, home-loving father of two princesses who will be next in line for the Throne. The Duke will be 41 on December 14.

The House of Commons, after hearing the momentous words of the King's message, reconvened at 4 p.m. to consider the legislation carrying out King Edward's abdication and the succession of the Duke of York.

The decision of the Sovereign was accepted for the most part with awe and respect, although Winston Churchill, Col. Josiah Wedgwood and other staunch champions of Edward expressed regret the monarchical might had been otherwise.

Former King Edward VIII has gone into voluntary exile for an indefinite period.

Edward's voluntary exile is in the tradition of abdicating kings and is thought to arise from the fact that embarrassment might be caused by his brother, King George VI if a group of still loyal to the former monarch should surround him and make themselves felt in English politics or society.

DUKE OF YORK SUCCEEDS TO BRITISH THRONE ON BROTHER'S ABDICATION

Britain Calmly Accepts Change of Monarchs

Under dreamy skies Britain proclaimed George VI King on Saturday. As the golden-uniformed heralds moved through foggy London streets in medieval pageantry which twice within a year has heralded a new Sovereign, the crisis of Edward's abdication passed into history.

With untroubled calm the people accepted the dramatic change of sovereigns and turned from the prince-king they loved so well to his tall, family-loving brother George—but with deep sympathy and a Godspeed to him who bore the burden of kingdom too heavy without "the woman I love."

Before the battlements of St. James' Palace heralds hailed the new King. Trumpets shrilled as thousands watched the pageantry of centuries ago re-enacted.

Sir Gerald Wellesley, the Garter principal king of arms, proclaimed "our only lawful and rightful liege lord, George the Sixth, by the Grace of God, King of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, to whom we acknowledge all faith and constant obedience with all hearty and humble affection, beseeching God, by whom kings and queens reign, to bless the Royal Prince George VI with long and happy years to reign over us."

"KING CORK IS CALLING" PLEASES LARGE CROWD IN HALL ON WEDNESDAY NITE

Over Thirty Citizens Take Part in the Performance

DANCING NUMBERS

A good crowd greeted the players in the Minstrel show on Wednesday night of last week when they presented their third annual revue, "King Cork in Calling," in the Farmers' Exchange Hall.

There were about thirty members in the cast, and under the direction of Mr. C. L. MacGregor, they carried out a very interesting and varied program.

While it would show partially to entertain any individual member of the cast and their performance, we have no hesitancy in saying that each and every one gave their best, and the crowd showed their approval on many occasions.

The show was sponsored by the ladies of the United Church and as a result of their efforts a substantial sum was cleared on the undertaking.

Between the first and third act, a few dancing numbers were presented, and were greatly enjoyed by those present.

Mrs. A. P. McKillop acted as pianist throughout the entire program.

Wheat Consumption In Canada

The announcement at the opening session of the Turgeon Grain Inquiry Commission by James McAnish, secretary of the Canadian Wheat Board, to the effect that the annual per capita consumption of wheat in Canada has declined more than a half a bushel in the past six years must have occasioned considerable surprise.

More than surprising, it is a startling revelation contained in the figures supporting his contention that a fairly stable annual consumption of 4.5 bushels per head of population for a period of years prior to and including 1929 had dropped to 2.9 bushels by 1935.

No reason was assigned by Mr. McAnish for this reduced share for one of the principal home industries of this country, so far as news reports of the proceedings indicate, but, when it is remembered that this reduced consumption in the producing country is augmented by diminishing consumption of Canada wheat in importing countries it is a matter of concern which appears to require further investigation.

A reduced consumption of wheat at home might not be a matter of such grave concern to Canadian farmers if it were not for restriction in the import market and if it was due to an increasing consumption in Canada of other Western Canadian farm products but, so far no evidence has been adduced to show that this is the case.

Until some further evidence to show the cause of this decline in home consumption, if available, is produced, the subject is one likely to arouse considerable speculation.

In a recent editorial the Saskatchewan Star-Phoenix sought to show, by reference to a series of tables of the statistics of the Canadian wheat commodity, that the blame should not be laid at the door of the Western Canadian consumer, leaving the inference that the reduction of the use of cereal products on the most tables of Canadians must be attributed to change in the diet habits of the people of this country.

This appears to be a reasonable inference in the light of the fact that wheat products in the form of bread constitute the cheapest food commodity available in this country and the further fact that conditions in the agricultural west in the last few years have not warranted the substitution of more expensive food for the humble loaf.

If improved economic conditions are responsible for reduced consumption of wheat products in Canada, it is only the east that can qualify for this distinction. Certainly conditions in the west up to and including 1935 have not warranted any upward change in the general dietary of the people. Experience of recent years has shown that as economic conditions improve in countries with a relatively high standard of living there is a tendency to cut down consumption of cereal products in favor of an increased use of meats, fruits and dairy products. This has happened in the past two or three years in Great Britain and particularly in Scotland, accounting for a narrowing market for Canadian wheat in the Motherland.

Informative light on the dietary trends of countries of the world was shed by Professor J. S. Dill, of the University of Stanford, in a research article at the World's Grain Show in Regina when he carefully compiled and analyzed statistics to show that in countries with a high standard of living such as the United States there was a progressively marked tendency towards reduced consumption of cereals. Dividing the countries of the world into three groups he proved that there is a reverse tendency in countries with a low standard of living, such as China and India while consumption in the intermediate group, which included a number of mid-European countries remains more or less static.

The combined information confirms statements made some time ago in this column, namely that the solution of the problem of the Canadian wheat producer lies in two directions: the opening up of new or comparatively new markets in countries where the living standard is still low and encouragement of increased consumption in existing markets in countries with a high standard of living, such as the United Kingdom.

During the past couple of years the millers of Great Britain, alarmed at the steady decline of wheat consumption in their own country have been staging an "Eat more Bread" campaign, but apparently with comparatively little effect. This is not very surprising because, if people want higher priced commodities and are able to pay for them, they will buy them regardless of such campaign.

The only way that such campaigns can be effective is to back them up by making bread and other wheat products more attractive. This is being done to a limited extent by bakers in some of the urban centers of Western Canada by the use of "saccharine seeds" and other "seasonings" which not only make bread more attractive in appearance but more appealing to the palate and what is more the bakers get a higher price for such products than the standard loaf.

If consumers in the northern Canadian cities are prepared to pay more for "fancy" breads, the probability is that such methods would bring increased consumption of properly launched and pushed with vigor in the United Kingdom and Eastern Canada and this is a field which might be well worth exploring.

In countries where the standard of living is high and rising the solution for the wheat producer lies not in cheapening the product but in making it more attractive.

Would Settle Nothing

Another War Might Add Further To Bouts And Depressions Do Not World's Frontiers

According to League of Nations figures, there are three million more men under arms in the permanent forces of the world today than at the outbreak of the great war, which was to have ended war. The number of men in armies and navies today is set at 8,200,000 and does not include the semi-official forces in the will of man. Neither depressions nor wars are inevitable if we make may be traced directly to the great upsurge of our minds to avert or control war, which settled nothing and seems to be leading to a new war which will settle nothing again except perhaps the fate of civilization.—Nigeria Press Review.

Subject To Man's Will

Business prophets usually talk as though good and bad times come and go with the inevitability of the tide.

This doctrine of economic predestination must not be allowed to obscure the fact that the future of mankind is subject to the will of man. Neither depressions nor wars are inevitable if we make may be traced directly to the great upsurge of our minds to avert or control war, which settled nothing and seems to be leading to a new war which will settle nothing again except perhaps the fate of civilization.—Nigeria Press Review.

Broadcast Reception

Highly Unsatisfactory Over Wide Areas Of Prairie Provinces

Highly unsatisfactory broadcast reception conditions over wide areas of the prairie provinces is the subject of a statement by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The statement, issued by the corporation to western newspapers, says:

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation desires that radio listeners in Western Canada should know that it is aware of the unsatisfactory conditions of reception over wide areas of the prairie provinces, and that it is moving as rapidly as possible towards their correction.

The corporation's coverage survey has progressed far enough to show that western coverage is inadequate and that reception interference from outside Canada is aggravating the situation in blanketing stations to which listeners ordinarily look for Canadian broadcasting. The corporation realizes that this situation is causing great inconvenience to many thousands of western people.

The results of the coverage survey were nearly ready for examination by the board of governors.

Temporary measures of redress are being taken wherever possible but unfortunately the situation is such that expedients are usually few. Permanent solution requires the application of a comprehensive plan.

View Of Famous Violinist

Fritz Kreisler Thinks Radio Broadcasting Has Cheapered Music

Fritz Kreisler said in San Francisco that radio has had a disastrous effect on music as a profession.

Notably by before the microphone himself, the violinist asserted that "broadcasting mars what the artist produces, and what the public gets is not the artist's conception, but the radio operator's conception."

Radio may not have affected the top-flight of concert artists, he said, but it has all but wiped out the rank and file.

The radio makes music too easily obtainable, the artist asserted.

Those who pay for tickets to a concert and make an effort to attend a recital in a hall have made some sort of sacrifice, however small," he said. "Radio's constant inundation of music in the home tends to cheapen it."

"I bid three spaces is no proper accompaniment to a Toscanini broadcast."

One Thing World Needs

Longer Sermons And More People To Hear Them

To our mind says the Chatham, Ontario, News, the average churchgoer spends too little time listening over the length of sermons. Most men who do go to church, are present in the Sanctuary once a week. That means that they spend all their waking hours of the week thinking about material things; and even when they do go to church they can spare only a few minutes of their time listening to the minister talk about spiritual things. They limit the speaker to 20 minutes—not a very long time when you consider how many minutes there are in a whole week.

As a matter of fact an hour should not be considered too long, under such circumstances—and when we look at conditions in the world today, one of the things we need apparently is not shorter sermons, but "more and longer" sermons—and more men to listen to them.

Called On Old Friend

Queen Mary Paid Visit To Former Member Of Royal Household

On a recent afternoon a ring came to the door of No. 35, Inglisroad, Ealing. When the servant opened the door, he saw two women standing on the step, one young, the other white-haired. He bowed to the elder. It was Queen Mary.

She drove to the house, an ordinary suburban two-story house, to visit an old friend, Lord Ormathwaite, who is 77 years of age and who was once a member of the Royal Household. For 13 years from 1887 to 1920 he was Master of Cerebrum. But now Lord Ormathwaite is nearly blind. His wife, who was president of Queen Mary's Sewing Guild, died 15 years ago and he is confined to an invalid's chair.

To cheer him in his retirement, Queen Mary sends him a present of game from Sandringham every Christmas and the other day with Lady Forster, she brought her old friend a thick warm rug to wear in his garden. She found him in his invalid's chair.

"I'm afraid I can't get up, your Majesty," said Lord Ormathwaite. "Don't you worry," replied Queen Mary. "Here let me wrap my rug around your knees."

She did. Then she sat down by his side, and for half an hour Queen Mary and her old friend talked of things that are past.

Veterans' Hearing Ends

Commission Now Assembling And Studying A Mass Of Material

Having concluded their public hearing throughout Canada, the war veterans' assistance commission now is engaged in assembling and studying a mass of material. The inquiries of that body took on all the large centres of population in Canada.

Colonel J. G. Rattray, chairman, in a statement issued at Ottawa, says that "through briefs received from veterans' associations and individuals, invaluable suggestions for the elimination of local and general unemployment among ex-service men were submitted. In each centre the commission made a study of the conditions confronting those unfortunate enough to be relief recipients."

In most of the places visited the commission established voluntary local committees of prominent business men, who have pledged themselves to assist the commission in the completion of its task.

Enumeration and classification of unemployed veterans has been delayed by reason of the fact that returns on the commission's questionnaire continue to be received.

Reading A Speech

Art Has Been Mastered By Very Few Orators

Few orators have mastered the art of reading a speech, as recent news films of the American Presidential campaign emphasize. Neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Governor Landon succeeds. Both take hasty glances at their audience, instead of inceptible glances at their text.

Lord Howarth's speech when he opened the Sunday Times Book Exhibition at Dorland Hall was a perfect example of how it should be done. His many quotations made a manuscript necessary. But it was only when he turned a page that one was conscious of the paper.—London Daily Mail.

Where Christmas Really Began

(By Sara Lockwood Williams)

FO THOUSAND years ago Augustus Caesar issued a decree that all the world was to be taxed.

Thus Joseph took Mary his betrothed, from the home of her mother Ann in Jerusalem and journeyed to Bethlehem to pay their taxes. Now the way was six miles. Mary, seated aside on a small donkey, with their few belongings tied in a cloth hanging across the donkey's neck, and Joseph trudged beside her found their way through the narrow streets of ancient Jerusalem, through the Joppa or Jaffa Gate down into the Valley of Gihon, then up to the ridge or watershed of Palestine's hill country and on to the Plain of Rephaim. Midway on the plain they probably passed beside the road to drink from a well. They did not know that the well would some day be called the Well of the Magi because the three Wise Men following "the bright star" would stop there to drink and to see the star reflected in the water's depth as they travelled by camel to Bethlehem in a search of Jesus the Son whom they were to marry.

Joseph and Mary were humble and fine and they loved each other. They lived happily across the well-irrigated terraced valleys, across the fields where shepherds guarded their flocks, noted the old stones which towers where the farmers and shepherds could go to look far across their lands in all directions. Then they glimpsed the city of Bethlehem. A small and humble village whose rock walls, cobble streets and stone buildings, show old gray and uninviting.

The man and woman wandered their way through the throngs of tax-payers about the bazaar and found the inn where they sought lodging. The inn was overflowing. People were having to sleep by the wayside. Now Mary was with child and Joseph wanted to protect her and make her comfortable, but no room was to be had. So the couple sought shelter in the stable beside their tiny donkey. The stable was a cave or grotto in the rocks with crude wooden manger filled with hay. Here, in the year 4 B.C. the thirty-third year of the reign of Herod the Great, Jesus of Nazareth was born. Mary wrapped Him in swatling clothes and laid Him in a manger. Here the shepherds, to whom the angels had announced the Savior's birth came to kneel low beside the humble bed and lay their gifts before the Babe whom they adored.

Because this Babe was born the whole world rejoices and celebrates Christmas. Joy, peace, love, humility—all the great truths of Christianity came to the world with His birth. The basis of modern civilization lies in the little town of Bethlehem.

Even as the Wise Men 2000 years ago made their way to the shrine, so pilgrims, tourists, believers and non-believers journey today across the self-same road, still the main artery of communication between Jerusalem and all the southern parts of Israel. They see the Well of the Magi, the terraced gardens, the shepherds' fields, and the old, old watch towers. The highway is now smoothly paved. The travelers all too often ride in luxurious motor cars. But they still pass caravans of camels and asses and see pedestrians garbed in costumes of many lands. For pilgrims come from near and far to the Holy Land, particularly to ancient Bethlehem, whose grayness has increased with centuries of dust and erosion on its leaden-headed stones. But dull as its outward appearance, few approach the city without a thrill of reverence and awe without renewing acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures and gaining inspiration and faith. To-day they cross the lively bazaar where "subjects of pity" made of shell mother-of-pearl and olive wood have wide space among the food-stuffs and ready for sale. They go to the Church of the Nativity. Bethlehem's greatest relic of antiquity. In 370 B. C. Constantine built this basilica above what is believed to be the grotto-stable in which Christ was born. The church looks like a fortress and its entrance is so small that even a short person must stoop to enter. It was made thus, as some say, to cause thoughts of humility and reverence upon entering a holy place, but to prevent the ancient Saracens and Turks when they were in power from desecrating the place with cattle. Fifteen centuries of Christian piety now guard this church and hold services here. The place is strikingly simple. The Greek Orthodox, the Armenian and Syrian churches occupy the main floor. Two circular stairways lead to the dark caves where the "stable" is chiseled in the grotto. On the floor is a great silver star with silver nails over a hollow where Mary is said to have given birth to Jesus. Around the star is the inscription:

"Hic de Virgine Maria Jesus Christus Natus Est."

Fifteen silver lamps unceasingly burn day and night over this holy place. Four belong to the Latins, six to the Greek Orthodox, and five to the Armenians and Syrians. Representatives from many Christian nations kneel in common prayer before the little altar. Soldiers in the grotto without worshippers. Whether or not they believe this to be the authentic spot of the Nativity, it carries the atmosphere of holiness and spirituality. The handsome, proud natives of Bethlehem seem always a happy people, but at Christmas time Bethlehem radiates joy.

OUR SANTA CLAUS

The American Santa Claus is a corruption of the Dutch Santa Claus, G. H. Melthues says: "Santa Claus, the name derived from St. Nicholas through the familiar use of the children in Teutonic countries, crossed to America. The direct route followed by him is somewhat open to question. On the way he traded his gray horse for a reindeer and made changes in his appearance."

CHRISTMAS PUDDING

As to who invented the Christmas pudding very little is known, except that, in the opinion of the average healthy boy, it was a good idea, who ever thought of it.

The Green Christmas Tree

In order to keep the trees green all the time it is on display, cut a small piece from the base of the tree so that a new surface is exposed. Then set the tree in its support with a small pan containing water in the center so that the base of the tree is resting in the water all the time. Add an aspirin tablet to the water and prepare to have a flourishing tree this year.

"Don't bother children telling 'em 'em far aint no Santa Claus," said Uncle Eben. "Bey has been hearin' dat ever since dey kin remember, but 'round he come, punctual every year, jes' de same."

They haven't yet invented the collapsible Christmas tree for the little flat, but the cedars and spruces grow more liliptian.

Does Honesty Pay?

Usually, the answer is as obvious as the fact that two and two make four, no matter how you try to get any other total. Is there a substitute for honesty in our friends, our neighbours, our business associates? Would not the very foundations of our everyday life topple without the trust and faith we put in the word of others?

Sometimes, in our haste to attain a certain definite objective, we may overlook certain factors. Perhaps it is wise then that we should stop now and ask ourselves that simple yet essential question, "Does Honesty Pay?"

An individual certainly makes little progress if he consistently adopts a policy which is not fundamentally honest. Therefore, does it not follow that a group of individuals would suffer the same penalty if it adopted a similar policy?

In other words, can two wrongs ever make a right? Can this province afford to pay the penalty of breaking faith with those who accepted our word in good faith? Will the immediate gain be more than wiped out by loss of our individual and collective honesty in the immediate future in the eyes of those to whom we MUST eventually go for financial support?

The answers to these questions concern every man, woman and child in Alberta today. Our future and our children's future is at stake.

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Lenders Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 34 member companies. It represents hundreds of thousands of small investments by typical Canadians. Its loans to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.

AUTUMN SPLENDOR

(E. F. Brunner)

It is Autumn—the season of the year which has displayed some of its really glorious beauty. When an autumn day is perfect it is the most perfect day of the year.

A few weeks ago a sharp frost put the finishing touches to our autumn scenery. Everywhere, in forests and woodlands, beside creeks and rivers' valleys and on mountain slopes, the trees and bushes have shed their green glory for the autumn tints that only the fall of the year can give. Every vestige of snow disappeared, bringing days of lazy autumn sunshine with crisp mornings and still, cool nights.

And the sunsets! Haven't they been indescribably beautiful? Moments of brave beauty in the colors of glowing crimsons and heliotropes and gold!

Even after the first faint streak
